- from publicly available sources of information;
- from the organisations identified below under 'When Connect Technology Australia discloses your personal information';
- from Connect Technology Australia own records of how you use your Connect Technology Australia services; or
- when legally required to do so.

How we use your personal information

Your personal information may be used to:

- verify your identity;
- assist you to subscribe to Connect Technology Australia services;
- provide the services you require;
- administer and manage those services, including charging, billing and collecting debts;
- inform you of ways the services provided to you could be improved;
- conduct appropriate checks for credit-worthiness and for fraud;
- research and develop Connect Technology Australia services;
- gain an understanding of your information and communication needs in order for Connect Technology Australia to provide you with a better service; and
- maintain and develop Connect Technology Australia's business systems and infrastructure, including testing and upgrading of these systems.

Also, your personal information is collected so that Connect Technology Australia can promote and market its services to you (including by way of direct mail, telemarketing, SMS and MMS messages). Connect Technology Australia does this to keep you informed of its products, services and special offers. If you do not wish Connect Technology Australia to promote and market its products, services and special offers to you, please call 1300 932 415.

In relation to marketing and promotional material sent via email, Connect Technology Australia will send such material only if you elect to receive it (i.e. opt-in) or if it is provided in response to your request.

When we disclose your personal information

In order to deliver the services you require, Connect Technology Australia may disclose your personal information to organisations outside of Connect Technology Australia and its subcontractors. Your personal information is disclosed to these organisations only in relation to Connect Technology Australia providing its services to you. These organisations carry out Connect Technology Australia:

- customer enquiries;
- mailing operations;
- billing and debt-recovery functions;
- information technology services;
- installation, maintenance and repair services;
- marketing, telemarketing and door-knocking services;
- market research; and
- web site usage analysis.

Connect Technology Australia takes reasonable steps to ensure that these organisations are bound by confidentiality and privacy obligations in relation to the protection of your personal information. In addition, Connect Technology Australia may disclose your personal information to:

- your authorised representatives or your legal advisers (e.g. when requested by you to do so);
- credit-reporting and fraud-checking agencies;
- credit providers (for credit related purposes such as credit-worthiness, credit rating, credit provision and financing);

- organisations who manage Connect Technology Australia business and corporate strategies, including those involved in a transfer/sale of all or part of its assets or business (including accounts and trade receivables) and those involved in managing Connect Technology Australia' corporate risk and funding functions (e.g. securitisation).

Calling Number Display

Connect Technology Australia's Calling Number Display facility (CND) lets persons who receive phone calls identify who is calling them by displaying the caller's number. CND forms part of the ordinary telephony service that you purchase from Connect Technology Australia.

Unless you have chosen to block your phone number, or have a silent line, CND will usually cause your phone number to be displayed (or logged) - locally and sometimes internationally - on a receiving caller's phone. In other words, CND will enable the disclosure of your phone number to receiving callers (and to other network operators) locally and internationally, unless you take the above measures.

For further information on CND (as well as on CND blocking), please call 1300 932 415.

Integrated Public Number Database

Connect Technology Australia is required by law to maintain an industry-wide database of phone numbers, known as the Integrated Public Number Database (IPND). The IPND is used to publish public number directories, provide directory assistance, operate emergency call services and safeguard national security. The IPND is not used for other purposes.

To satisfy its legal obligations, Connect Technology Australia is required to provide your phone number

(as well as other personal information such as your name, address and service location) to the IPND. All other telecommunications carriers are required to do the same.

If you have a silent line, your number will not be published in public number directories or be disclosed by directory assistants, even though it must be provided to the IPND for the above uses.

Connect Technology Australia's web sites

Connect Technology Australia provides products and services via its various web sites. When you visit Connect Technology Australia sites, its web servers record anonymous information such as the time, date and URL of the request. This information assists Connect Technology Australia to improve the structure of its web sites and monitor their performance.

Connect Technology Australia may use 'cookies' on various web sites. Cookies are an industry standard and most major web sites use them. A cookie is a small text file that our web sites may place on your computer. Usually, cookies are used as a means for Connect Technology Australia web sites to remember your preferences. As such, cookies are designed to improve your experience of Connect Technology Australia web sites.

In some cases, cookies may collect and store personal information about you. Connect Technology Australia extends the same privacy protection to your personal information, whether gathered via cookies or from other sources.
